CCF AIMS

Dr. A. O. Ross of Langley was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Elgin-Sunshine CCF Club, White Rock, on May 4, when over 40 people attended. Dr. Ross spoke on hospital insurance, comparing the much greater benefits of the B.C. plan. Benefits from this has already been cut by the Social Credit government, he remarked.

The speaker stated that every person, irrespective of his ability to pay, has the right to good health. A CCF government in B.C. could copy the Saskatchewan plan, the best and cheapest of its kind in North America; the first in the world in radio-active cobalt for cancer treatment, and air ambulance service.

Decision of Delta Progressive Conservatives not to run a candidate, apart from spilling young Deane Finlayson's hope of a candidate in every riding, poses interesting speculation on the outcome of the local contest.

Which way will the Tories vote? For pseudo-conservative WAC Bennett's Social Credit party, or the Liberals' farmer-candidate Les Gilmore. That they would favour the CCF or Communist candidate is unlikely.

Many concede that the withdrawal of the Conservative will strengthen Liberal hopes in Delta. Whether it will favor his election or merely heighten the contest between Social Credit and CCF remains a matter for wild speculation.

Prepare now!

It is not too early for local residents to be thinking of decorating their homes and business premises for Her Majesty's Coronation on June 2.

If left to the last minute many may be disappointed in ordering the flags or bunting they desire. That some decoration should be the order of the day is not only patriotic but also a mark of respect for the titular head of the glorious British Commonwealth of which Canada is a member.

It is to be hoped that business people and residents will not overlook this special occasion as Victoria Day has been in the past.

Our American Cousins

No one who so much as glances at an American paper or magazine can fail to notice the many signs of frustration exhibited by our neighbours over the Coronation. They just haven't got a show like that—the inauguration of the contrary notwithstanding.

It is an extraordinary spectacle—as great a contradiction as could be imagined. We have the Hearst and McCormick papers and the rank and file republicans accusing the British of almost every crime in the code. The British are killing "our boys" in Korea according to a senator who spoke on the Town Meeting program on Tuesday night. How, you ask? By selling some goods behind the iron curtain.

May they sell their goods, then, in the U.S.? Oh no, the Senator says, this would injure American producers.

In spite of all this the magazines and papers are filled from cover to cover with accounts of the Coronation, with pictures of the Beefeaters, the Killed Highlanders and the quaint villages of the English countryside all for the delectation of a drooling public who can barely await the moment when the crown is placed on Elizabeth's head.

It will come to them, characteristically enough, on their television sets sandwiched in between spot announcements of razor blades, complexion soaps and laxatives, depending on the sponsor of the moment. That's the way the Americans like it.

—The Echo

Some brighter thing

Year in, year out we talk about, what things cost long ago, what best cost, spare ribs cost that, and bones so and so. You got the doggy chow bones, and liver for the cat. All this and more we recollect, as we together chat. Our wages were not high those days, and it really does seem queer.

We were happy and contented, and did not live in fear. Now wages are much higher, and things cost more and more. Like to be blame the housewife, if at times she does get sore. Looks like we're getting overpaid, and at that mighty fast. As we ask of one another, how long will these times last. A dollar won't go far today, and that we can't deny. You have tried it, so you know it, just what will one buck buy. But we get overpaid by complaining, so look for some brighter thing. Like the coming Water Festival, and the good time, it will bring.

By means of radio, millions of listeners in Canada will be following the Coronation parade along its route, as well as the service in Westminster Abbey.

Here's how these broadcasts will be related to listeners here: three transmissions of the same program, but on different frequencies, will be shortwaved by the BBC from London as the historic event takes place. One of these will be picked up by the CBC shortwave receiver near Ottawa, and the other two from New York. They will then be relayed to Toronto, from where the broadcast will be fed to the CBC networks. Toronto will have a choice of using the best of the three transmissions, and can switch from one to the other wave length, thereby assuring best possible reception for listeners in Canada.

In addition, a French-language broadcast of the event will be beamed directly to Montreal for distribution to the CBC's French Network. The French units show (left to right) the CBC's French Network commentators, Judith Jansen, Rene Levesque, and Gerard Arthur.

CBC personnel who will help arrange and broadcast the Coronation for English-speaking listeners will be (bottom left and right) A. E. Powley, Supervisor of Special Events, and Capt. W. E. Briggs, who will do a commentary from inside Westminster Abbey.

Improvements

Editor, Semiahmoo Sun.

Dear Sir:

We are grateful for the work that has been done on Marine Drive and Washington, but there are a few more things that need to be done. We have the steps rebuilt at the pier? and couldn't the sewage be thrown through a pipe instead of an open ditch for people to cross? Also I would like to see people prevented from burning trash in that barrel near the library. A good deal of rubbish during their short life time, and have for years.

Also steps are badly needed down to Coldcut beach. It is very dangerous to climb down the new rocks that were placed this winter. I saw one lady slip down 10 feet and if someone gets crushed there it will not be good for White Rock. I'm hoping too that some of the rocks will be bulldozed again. These may be little things but they mean a lot to visitors.

We like White Rock and want to be proud of it too.

Thanks.

MRS. MAY.

Open Letter

To the General Public.

Dear People, The week of May 2 to 9 is "Be Kind to Animals Week" and is sponsored by the BPCA in Canada. I am making this appeal to all people who own animals to be kind to them during their short life time, and just for one week.

Most of us like to think we are "Christians" but there is no Christianity in a hard heart. Christianity means love, kindness and help to all living creatures. How many of us give that? Animals live their owners unselfishly, expecting nothing in return. In human love like that? Animals are so much like animals be found, they are both the same. They are loved by them. They depend on each other for their existence. Men have earned their living on farms from the product of animals and many have become wealthy dealing in live animal trade. The majority of tiny babies are their start in life to the milk of the cow and the lowly goat.

So, all of us who work with animals for a living, or keep them as pets, should be kind and considerate to them. In places, such as the frozen north country and to mountainous countries, animals are indispensable to man. They are used as a means of transportation and for rescue of people lost in the wilderness. They are used by the law in tracking down criminals. They are used for medical experiments. Taken from City Pounds and animal shelters, they are sold to the thousands, to have surgical operations performed on them so that humans will suffer less pain and live longer. They suffer for us. The least we can do is be kind to them.

In Surrey, there is still a great deal of unnecessary cruelty to animals and birds. A friend of mine tells me she of-Government or elsewhere. We depend on public subscriptions, and however small, it is acceptable, and a receipt is always given. So please be a real animal lover, help us to help your animal, help us to pay our inspector, as he has to live too.

A few pointers on being kind to your domestic pet. Myself, I do not believe in kitting them, or having them on my bed, but I do believe we should give them a few minutes daily care. A dog needs a clean dry bed in the shade in summer, and to be kept clear of flies. See that clean water is always within reach, especially for dogs on chains or in enclosures, as they cannot run around to find water as the dog at large can. Feed a full grown dog, for instance, will eat, once or twice a day, if you feed a large one. Starchy foods are not good for dogs. Love your dog and he will not stray far from home.

When you take a tiny kitten or puppy into your home, they will be frightened at first in a strange place, but will soon get used to it. You are kind to them. They should be kept warm, a cold puppy often dies, put them in a box in a warm place away from draughts. Feed them small quantities five or six times a day, of Pabum, brown bread, milk, gravy, etc., increasing the amount as they grow, decreasing the feedings. All puppies should be wormed with puppy capsules soon after weaning.

A mother dog for about one week after the birth of puppies, kittens are fed the same. If a dog or cat comes around your home, you know it is lost, be kind, give it a hand out of food and drink, and if you cannot keep it, please take it to the Surrey Pound, Newton 67X1. There is no need for animals to be homeless and starving in Surrey today.

BC!

A major new industry for B.C.

- ... more jobs
- ... more wages
- ... more money in circulation

WHY?

You've seen that sort of announcement in the papers often in the past few years.

Out of it come more security and opportunity for the people who live here, for young people growing up... for new citizens coming to make a living in B.C.

What lies back of every news item of that kind?

CONFIDENCE!

It's as simple as that. Someone had to make the decision to go ahead. Someone who trusted the people of British Columbia. Someone who backed his judgment with investors' savings.

Without such continued confidence, there could be no further progress in British Columbia. No more big construction jobs of the kind today making B.C. hum. No new pipelines, refineries, pulp mills, mines, plywood plants, factories, power plants.

Worst enemy of confidence in this field is fear of Socialism... mistrust that people who believe the Government should own and control nearly everything and everyone's affairs will have a chance to experiment with their theories in B.C.

B.C. can go on forging ahead... or B.C. can stagnate. It's up to us who live and work in B.C. to decide.

In the Garden

By G. E. SERY, Garden Editor.

There is no saving of time or labour in hurrying to do a job in the garden before the land is in proper condition for it. In fact, the opposite is true. This applies in particular to those who have a heavy soil containing a good deal of clay.

Such soils will "set" or pack so tightly if tramped over when in a wet condition, and it will be virtually impossible to turn them back into good tilth until the reason. Wait until the soil is dry enough so that it will not hold together in a ball when squeezed.

Time your transplanting for dull or showery weather if possible. This will mean less drying out of roots in the move, and less loss of water through the leaves, water being the most important part of the root system to replace quickly. If you cannot transplant in favourable weather, do the work towards evening and give the plants a good watering if the soil tends to be dry. You can also provide helpful shelter from the wind and drying winds for the first few days by sticking a shingle into the earth at an angle over the plant on its sunny side, or by inverting a pot or drainage can of sufficient size over it.

THE VEGETABLE PLOT, SOUTHERN STRAIGHT ROWS' BEST

In small gardens there is a definite advantage in planting vegetables in short rows, 25 feet or less. In an oblong garden, the short dimension of the garden is north and south, permitting the rows to be in the direction of the sun's rays, and the owner is fortunate.

The advantage of short rows is second in importance to the distribution of sunshine, however, and where the long dimension of the garden space is north and south, it is best to have the rows at an angle, breaking the length by a path every 25 feet.

NO ADVANTAGE
Commercial growers, cultivating with power machines, favouring the use of long rows because of the time required for turning machines around. But the home gardener gains no such advantage; and when a row is longer than is required for a single planting of a vegetable, he must divide the row between two rows, which is inconvenient, or fill out the row with one, and thus overplant.

Indeed, much of the waste of garden space and effort caused by overproduction may be traced to the twin temptations to "use up the packet," when half a packet of seed will produce the required crop; or "fill up the row," when half a garden row would be sufficient.

Short rows have another advantage, which is real, though it may seem trivial. In cultivating, you usually take care to sow a silt, and rest when you finish it. With short rows, you take it easy, as you should, and break up the garden work with frequent rests. With long rows, it is more likely that you will become tired of garden tasks, and this in turn may result in neglecting them.

An exception to the rule for straight rows may be made in to-hilly country, where the ways of the garden are not straight, but you may plant in rows along the contour, planting at right angles to the slope, but they should still be parallel on rounded slopes they will be curved.

DOUBLE WORK
Serpentine, slanting or unstraight rows will double the work of cultivation, and give the appearance of incompetence to the garden.

Rows are spaced according to the needs of the crops, and the convenience of cultivation. In rich soil vegetables may be spaced more closely than in poor; but when spaced too close together, it is difficult to close water between the rows. For crops growing 12 inches tall or less, rows may be spaced 12 inches apart and cultivated with hand tools. For cultivation with a wheel hoe, 18 inches likely to be found a minimum distance, since it is necessary to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetables, whatever tool is used. Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes, or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, four feet will usually be the maximum spacing, giving only such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

CARE IN TRANSPLANTING
When the amateur gardener sets out in his garden plants which were started early in a greenhouse, hothouse, or a window box, he must be careful to give them the best possible chance to live. The way to insure this is to regard transplanting as an operation with the plant as a patient, and to make sure that it is performed with a minimum of shock.

It shocks a plant to move it, and gives it a set-back, but there are advantages in giving it an early start, weeks before seed can be sown in the garden. The plants that stand the operation best are those that are small, with strong stems and abundant roots. If grown in pots, plant heads on small flats, so that you get them with roots undisturbed, so much the better. But even bare root plants can be transplanted with proper care.

Roots of plants should not be pruned. Replacement of lost roots must take place before the plant can grow very much. Tops of plants should not be pruned. Pruning removes part of the "factory" which has to make the new plant material (carbohydrate) upon which growth depends. Pruning is likely to take off more than is necessary. Dead or partly dead tissue does no harm, though slowly dead leaves may be picked off.

Shading is a good practice when plants are succulent, when soil and air are dry and when sun is hot. But good plants can usually be set out successfully without shade. When you have set out your plants, work in a little organic animal fertilizer around the plant, nitrogenous, about equal, sulphur, blood and bonemeal, blood meal, fish meal, or Tankage. Avoid all chemical fertilizers like poison. Referring to Tankage, you may find that this manufactured locally very cheaply priced.

If the weather is dry, water the plant food in, or if showery the rain will do it for you. No matter how eager you are to grow them, tomatoes should not be set out until all danger of frost is over. When you do so, remember that the plants respond to care and good cultivation. If you buy your plants, choose only sturdy, stocky ones, with dark green foliage. Avoid tall spindly seedlings.

Set out your tomato plants in a little deeper than you would in the flats or pots or beds, as the cases may be. A plant can be set as deep as the first shoot of leaves from this point. The lower leaf stems on the tomato plant always turn yellow and drop off. Therefore, such leaves may be removed at transplanting time, but it is not essential.

As soon as any side shoots appear at the junction of leaf and stem, they must be removed, if you are growing plants which are to be eaten. This does not apply to varieties of tomatoes which are allowed to break out and sprout on the ground.

Stake the tomato plants as soon as they begin to grow and stake them with soft material, and go over the plants once or twice a week to prune the side shoots. Be careful not to disturb the lower stem which you will find growing on the opposite side of the leaf stem and a little above it.

To all those with a yen for gardening who have felt a desire to experiment with their own pin-stitch pin-stitch house the model shown in the photo may have some interest and help. 1. The dimensions are 3 ft. x 6 ft. with a height of 4 ft. on the ends from the bottom to the ridge. 2. The floor may be installed at the desired height so that the operator does his work standing up. 3. The plants are started in soil or flower pots rather than the method used in the usual hot bed. 4. In the model shown, the heat is supplied by four infrared heat lamps installed along the bottom of the ridge and may be varied according to the heat required. 5. Four window sashes are shown and each is hinged to the ridge. The entire structure can be dismantled easily and stored when not in use.

Hales wins high aggregate at show
White Rock and District Horticultural Society presented its annual spring flower show in the United Church Hall on May 8. Cecil Solty of the B.C. Electric Garden program officially opened the show after speaking in an interesting manner to the large audience in attendance. Mr. Price, the president of the society, thanked Mr. Solty for coming and welcomed all those present and invited them to view the lovely spring flowers and then have some refreshments. The beautiful floral displays and arrangements were judged by Mr. Nicholson of the Province.

As guests wandered around the room from table to table they were delighted with the stately tulips and daisies, the lovely colors of the iris, the luscious beauty of the lilac and the gorgeous arrangement of bouquets in the carefully planned baskets and table centres, dish gardens, corages and hand bouquets and finally sprays of flowers and floral arrangements.

A committee from the Women's Auxiliary of the United Church prepared and served a delicious refreshment. Points awarded were as follows: Hales 65 1/2; Mrs. R. Collins 43 1/2; Mrs. S. Bellow 37 1/2; Mrs. H. Woodall 35 1/2; Mrs. E. Wright 24 1/2; Mrs. T. Price 21 1/2; Mrs. Wm. Bailey 28 1/2; J. G. Gardner 27 1/2; R. Dunn 25 1/2; Mrs. G. M. Thirt 22 1/2; Mrs. L. Ash 22 1/2; Mrs. B. M. Cavanagh 17 1/2; Mrs. N. R. Christie 16 1/2; Mrs. G. Gardner 15 1/2; Mrs. M. Halpin 14; Mrs. A. B. Wallace 12.

TO LIVE HERE—From Lethbridge have come Mrs. and Mrs. F. A. Rodgers, 825 Royal Ave., to join the ranks of White Rock permanent residents only month ago. Having made two previous visits to our fair town in 1901 and 1902, they knew surely this was the spot for them. Settling here has not disillusioned them in the least. On the contrary, it has surpassed their fondest desires.

TWO REELS AND A CRANK

By Albert E. Smith

To a generation which views television with a take-it-for-granted air, the beginnings of the motion picture industry probably will have little appeal. To those of us who have watched the painful growth, a book written by one of its pioneers will bring memories of a time when a nostalgic touch, TWO REELS AND A CRANK is written by Albert E. Smith, one of the partners in the Vitaphone Company. This company was the first to see the possibilities in projecting pictures on a screen. For several years the nickelodeon, but people were beginning to be bored with the dull subject matter. Mr. Smith was a very young man when he and his partner, Jim Blackburn, conceived the idea. Their first studio was rented for ten dollars a month in Fairbanks, which was at that time practically uninhabited. From that moment they never looked back.

When the first pictures were made the cast consisted of the partners plus anyone they could inveigle to pose. From very ordinary photographs of what might be termed still life, the young men graduated to scenes of actual events. Here they once more exercised their imagination to run riot. They produced actual, on-the-spot photographs of the Battle of Santiago Bay, in their own studio, using paper models for ships and a few grains of gun powder for the cannon fire.

Mr. Theodore Roosevelt was one of their earliest patrons. He loved publicity and the public liked to see him. In photographing him, the young pioneers acquired a friend who never let them down.

About this time a third partner was added, a Pop Rock, a man about 50 who added stability to our young enthusiasts.

After the Battle of Santiago the "producers" had to explore other fields and they were fortunate to be able to go to Africa to film the fighting of various scenes in the Boer War. It would be too bad to leave an impression that this book is a dull, or highly coloured history of the development of motion pictures, from a technical or mechanical viewpoint. The author has a good style, an excellent way with words, and descriptive powers which show clearly in the following pen portrait.

"By the time he was thirty, Edison was the Old Man to everyone. He had had little schooling. His scientific knowledge was largely intuitive. His taste in art, literature and music was almost negligible. He was an extraordinarily careful craftsman. He drove his men; when a project set him aflame he could not understand why his men were not similarly affected. He was easily the man of the century, a choric, un-kempt, tyrannical, imaginative, gallant cherub whose genius was of a kind given to few men."

Mr. Smith has a gift of humor which keeps the history on a light plane. The time element is a little hard to follow, since he writes from memory in a good part of the book. The anecdotes of the early stars, Lillian Gish, Maurice Costello and the Talmadge sisters will recall to those glamorous people of a bygone era.

Recently the library has added to its stock a number of books of autobiography which are informative and good reading. GLITTER AND THE GOLD, by Consuelo Balcan; SENSE OF URGENCY, by Charles Burton; and THE LADY AND THE LUMBERJACK, by Olive Harbert. These all have appeal for the reader who reads for fun and not who wishes a better than average book.

HES SIX ... Swings, tee-totumers, slide and merry-go-rounds, provided the background for the gay birthday party of six-year-old David Padden, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Padden, Foster St., who accompanied by a host of playmates, gave vent to their energy for several happy hours at the Peace Arch Park. With his co-operative father providing transportation, guests were driven to the playground to be treated to buns, winners, birthday cake and cool drinks and an afternoon of games and gaily colored balloons.

INSTITUTE MEETS ... The Women's Institute of one of the two former divisions of the south Fraser District held a board meeting in Cloverdale Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Graham, 206 Broadway, Cloverdale. The Women's Institute reports that the home-cooking sale held last Saturday was very successful.

IMPROVED ... The many friends of John Critchlow, 859 Duena Vista, will be happy to know he is much improved and will on the way to recovery again. Assisting in his rapid regaining of health was the visit of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Critchlow of Montreal. Feeling their father was much improved during their visit they have now left again for their home in the east.

4 millions?

How many Canadians keep warm with oil?

More than 4 millions. Oil is used in the furnaces or heaters of more than a million Canadian homes—better than one in four.

Oil plays a large and growing part in our everyday living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

How does Canada rank among the nations in known oil reserves—
1st 17th 21st

How many barrels of oil (15 gallons to a barrel) do you think Canadians use in a year?
8 millions 165 millions? 300 millions?

In the past 10 years, the average wholesale prices of all commodities have risen 81 per cent. Have prices of Easo gasoline risen?
least about one-third

Energy produced at Niagara Falls each day is equal to that in 9,000 barrels of crude oil. Prairie oil net new produce energy equal to how many barrels of Niagara?
27 111 117

Taxes take a big part of a company's income. How would you pay Imperial's 1912 tax rate compared with its dividend? Was it—greater? least about the same?

Far down the list a few years ago, Canada now ranks eighth. Except for a group of Middle East countries—Iran, Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia—only Venezuela and Kuwait have larger reserves.

Last year 165 million barrels—about one gallon for every man, woman and child. Canada uses twice as much oil as it did six years ago.

Much less. The average wholesale price of Easo gasoline across Canada is up about one-third as much as the average for all commodities.

The energy of the oil produced in the western oil fields each day is about 18 times that generated at Niagara.

Taxes were 515 millions, about 2 1/2 times dividends, for a group of Middle East countries. Imperial paid 10 in taxes and 4 in dividends. Tax figures do not include gasoline sales tax paid at the pump.

Hospital film show attracts good crowd

By MRS. DAISY STUM

A capacity crowd attended Sunnyside Hall last Saturday evening to see the moving pictures presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowles, of White Rock.

The Crossroads Hospital Auxiliary arranged the event and they reported that the entire proceeds of the evening, $25.50, will be turned over to the hospital. Many hours of patient work and tramping over rugged country to obtain pictures of wild animals and birds won commendation from the audience. The pictures shown were "So This Is Florida" and "Atop The Great Divide".

Many Sunnysiders, including Boy Scouts and their leaders went to the Peace Arch on Sunday to attend the Mother's Day service. The Eagles, who arranged the event, presented corsages to the oldest, youngest, and newest mother, also the mother of most children, at the service. Mrs. H. H. H. of Semiahmoo Trail, mother of eleven children, was one of those so honored, while one of her daughters received the corsage youngest mother.

Mrs. J. R. Bemis who has been the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Malden of 1238 King George Highway, has returned to her summer home at Brainerd, Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bill and infant daughter, Susan, Jane were visitors at the home of Elmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bill of Surrey. Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Renner of Sunnyside are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter. This little sister for Douglas was born May 8 in the Royal Columbian Hospital.

A CCF meeting was held in Sunnyside Hall on Saturday last week. A large group was on hand to hear Len Shepherd and Dr. Rose of Langley. Dr. Len Shepherd, CCF candidate for Delta, spoke on the cost of education, under the Talbot.

Jack White of Sunnyside has returned from St. Mary's Hospital in New Westminster where he received surgical treatment.

To the Editor

In this world of graveness and seriousness, there is nothing finer than a laugh. And what isn't provokes laughter, which this troubled world surely needs, better than amusement? Therefore, I have turned from unsuccessful letters to the editor to creative writing, with a special consideration for comedy and satire. I dare say that the comics are read a great deal more than the editorial page of most daily newspapers.

The original composition accompanying this note was written solely for its readers' enjoyment, but I ask that my name not be mentioned in connection with this article when and if it is published. Thank you very much.

He went that-a-way

"Did a man come running by here a few minutes ago?" questioned the plump policeman, after running up to me.

"Why, yes," I replied.

"Can you describe his appearance?"

"I can do that. He was a tall young man with a fallow complexion and—"

"Don't you mean a 'fallow complexion'?"

"No, indeed I don't. He looked as if he had been a farmer earlier in his life. Anyway, he had flashy red hair topped by a yellow Panama hat. His sparkling and jolly blue eyes contrasted pleasantly to his lightly tanned face and hands. The high and well pronounced cheek bones together with his high forehead showed intelligence, while his shapely and muscled limbs indicated a man of action."

"How can you tell so much from the fleeting glance of the man when he ran past you?" inquired the constable.

"Because I'm looking in a mirror," was my response, with which I placed a heavy blow on the lawman's chin and gently told his unconscious form in the gutter. Then I trotted off after my twin brother.

259 point win for Whites

The White and Red Houses got off to a good start Friday when they tied for honors with their parades, both of which were very good.

White was dressed up in baseball uniforms and various other disguises to represent big league baseball and Red House was disguised as farmers, fishermen, loggers, etc., to represent the various industries of B.C. White also won for their song which was good and loud and fairly well co-ordinated. Blue House, whose theme for the parade was Ma and Pa Kettle and their large family, came first in the yell.

In the morning events White House maintained a slight lead at noon the score was as follows:

White—134
Blue—126
Red—86

After lunch, White and Blue pulled far ahead of Red. White was strong on track events and Blue was good in the jumping events.

Late in the afternoon, White had 211, Blue 189, and Red, who had pulled behind in disc and shot put, 147.

The score became closer and closer and was almost tied when rain fell and the remaining events were postponed until Monday. When the rains were over, the score was:

White and Blue once again pulled ahead. The relay events were still to be run and a few field events but not yet been done.

The Senior Boys relay was the most exciting. At the very last John Woodhouse ran over the line for Red House to beat Ken Bone of White by a few inches.

After a very exciting day the final score was: White 259, Blue 244, and Red 152.

Well done, White House! House Winners of Events

SENIOR MIXER

A comparatively small number of students appeared considering this was the last mixer of the year, but those that did show up found the evening a profitable one. When asked by many of the bewildered students what the strange contraption was in the centre of the gym floor, Geoff answered, "How do you know? I just made it!"

By the end of the night almost everyone had guessed it was the end of a pier. Surprised? The winners of various dances were:

Elimination: Yvonne Lawrence, Les Fowler.

Mermaid and Neptune: Betty James, Eric Robinson.

Balloon Dance: Vera Carlson and Don King.

Junior Mixer

The dance got off with a good start Thursday afternoon and the many pretty swirling dresses of the young damsels. Although a few reluctant boys had to be persuaded onto the floor by a few lookers from Mr. Mills and threat from Mr. Kish, that all those who didn't dance would have five social questions to do, everyone soon mixed well. The winners were as follows:

Broom Dance: Sharon McGee and David Reavis.

Elimination: Brian Burrows and Henry Pader.

Balloon Dance: Dorothy King and Lloyd Coombs.

All in all a very enjoyable time was had by all.

PLAIN CHATTER

Don and Kathy have gone back to grade three we see. Playing skip with the girls.

How do you like the new jackets they wear? The banquet went off very well.

If you are tall, dark, handsome, own a '63 Cadillac and have a lot of money and are available for Friday, 29th of May, contact any Grade 12 girls who are in need of such a person.

Everyone had the usual after sports day "flow" at the Mixer and we were all blushing.

What happened to all the kids who didn't go to the Mixer?

The seven who were all blushing accidents this year, small tainting to Sports Day. We hope everyone has recovered.

The grads are wondering if anyone has recovered from the gym and Home Ec. room for the commencement.

The student Council elections are coming up soon. Thought of a candidate yet?

If you see John W. talking to himself, he's just remembering 60 lines of "Macbeth".

We hear that Final Exams will be starting early this year. Will starting early hurt at least it gets them over with.

Did you guess who the Fashion Model was last week?

It was Dodie Clark. Congratulations, Dodie.

There will be a track meet held here tonight starting at 6 p.m. in the Semiahmoo and Princess Margaret. How about a big crowd out to cheer the kids on to victory.
